FOREWORD

It is the task of Shady Side to produce graduates who are as well-trained as possible for college and life. In 1951-52, a year of evaluation, when much effort has been expended to see how well we at Shady Side are accomplishing our task, the ACADEMIAN takes as its special purpose the furnishing of a permanent record of an academic year--a record to which you may turn in the future for the refreshment of memory and for laughter--in all a record of the activities of boys who are constantly evaluating themselves, of teachers who are studying their methods, of administrators who are trying to improve the institution.

We hope you will like this edition. A tremendous amount of hard work has gone into it. It is a great pleasure for me to be connected with a school that can produce a book like this, recording, as it does, the experiences of an exciting community.

Dedication

MR. F. WALTER JONES, JR.

The Graduating Class of 1952 is proud to dedicate its ACADEMIAN to Mr. F. Walter Jones, Jr. His wit, exceptional friendliness, and good sense of values have made him especially well liked and respected. His service to the Academy as history master and athletic coach has been outstanding.

A Note from the Editors:

During the school year

just completed, Shady Side has undergone a long and involved process of self-evaluation climaxed by the visit to the campus of a committee of educators

. From finances to classes, from buildings to food, the evaluators for three days went over the school with a fine-toothed comb to determine how well the school succeeds in meeting its aims . In 1952, a year of evaluation, it seems appropriate, therefore, to have the ACADEMIAN show what is being done to realize the aims of the Academy.

That the major purpose of the school is to carry out the process of turning an elementary school graduate into a college freshman is rather obvious when one knows that Shady Side is, and has been for 69 years, a college preparatory school. The process is a long one, an expensive one, a complex one, involving many activities in and out of the classroom.

Actually the business of preparing a boy for college resembles in many respects the creation of any quality product . Those in charge of both endeavors must choose raw materials carefully; they must handle those materials conscientiously in each stage; they must exercise vigilance by means of examination and checking to assure a quality product. One important difference, however, must be noted: the manufacturer deals in inanimate objects ; Shady Side deals in human beings with all their individual strengths and weaknesses. There can be no assembly-line methods in our process.

We invite you, then, to go for a tour of the Academy in the pages of this book. You will see views of the plant, pictures of those in charge of the production, pictures of our products in various stages of production, pictures of the many vital and interesting processes called for to turn out the finished product, pictures of the finished products themselves, and finally a glimpse, at the end, of a large stock of raw material which will reach us within the next few years.

Athletic Council

Headed by the director of athletics, the Athletic Council is comprised of the assistant director of athletics and the captains and coaches of the various varsity teams in season. This council governs the Athletic Association, of which every student is a member. As a member of this group, the student is represented in the council by the student officers of the Athletic Association.

Student Council

The Student Council, which represents the feelings and ideas of the student body in discussions with the faculty, is composed of members from the various houses and forms. Working under a new constitution established last year, the council has gained a good deal more self-rule and responsibility for the student body.

Sargon Society

The Sargon Society, one of the Academy's two honorary organizations, was founded nearly thirty years ago to honor those members of the upper two forms who excell in some phase of campus life. Four times during the year formal "tapdays" are held. Those students who have been able to meet the rigorous standards of the society are then invited to join.

Cum Laude Society

The Shady Side chapter of the national Cum Laude Society, the academic honor society in preparatory schools, was founded in 1929. The upper twenty percent of the graduating class become members provided that they acquire an average of eighty percent or better in their last two years at Shady Side. Students listed below were chosen at the beginning of the second semester. Additional members will be chosen at the close of the academic year.

St. Andrew's Society

Boys of the upper three forms who are deemed likely to make the most notable contribution to informal discussions on religion and moral questions are voted into this society. Besides having regular bi-weekly meetings, the society sponsors several meetings with outside speakers. Topics discussed during this year included these: What is God?, Is there a God? The Power of Prayer, Why Evil?, and Immortality. The faculty advisers are Dr. Erdman Harris and Mr. F. Walter Jones, Jr.

groups

The Forum

The Forum, one of the largest organizations on campus, discusses a wide range of topics. Among the subjects examined this year were "Universal Military Training," "Is college football overemphasized?" and "Who will win the Middle East?" Several outside speakers were invited to the meetings and provided interesting talks. Student speakers introduce the topics for discussion when there is no guest. Mr. Arlin M. Cook serves as adviser.

Debating Society

This year, under Mr. Cook's direction, the Debating Society of Shady Side has had a well rounded schedule. Among other contests, the team held dual debates with Edgewood High School and Avonworth High School, and participated in the round robin tournament sponsored by the Pennsylvania Music and Forensic League. The subject for debate was: "Resolved: Every American citizen should be subject to conscription for essential services in time of war."

United World Federalists

The United World Federalist Chapter at Shady Side has grown since its start in 1948 into a strong organization. This year the Federalists increased the number of school meetings, arranged for more outside speakers to address the students in the Library, and made several trips to hear talks by current authorities. Among these trips was one made to Carnegie Music Hall to hear Mr. David E. Lilianthal speak on the United Nations. Activities of the group are carried out under the adviserships of Mr. Parker Berg.

The Academian is the official yearbook of Shady Side Academy. The purpose of the book is to record an accurate, detailed account of the year's activities, presenting them in writing, illustration, and photograph, with individual attention given to the seniors. The members of the staff, aside from enjoying the satisfaction of a job well done, gain valuable experience in writing and business which will aid them in later life. Mr. George Byron Waldrop acts as adviser to the business staff and Mr. Carl M. Cochran works with the editorial staff. The Art Club and Photography Club contribute much to the creation of the book as it appears in final print.

The Shady Side News

The SHADY SIDE NEWS has been the school's bi-weekly student publication for more than forty-five years. During this time it has brought distinction to both itself and the school by winning many prizes and awards. Among the more recent ones received have been the Princetonian Awards, including "firsts" and last year a "Medalist" rating, the award given to the best ten per cent in the "first" division. The candidates out for the editorial and business posts are trained by the more experienced members of the board under the supervision of Mr. Alan B. McMillen, the faculty supervisor.

Egerian

The EGERIAN, the literary magazine of Shady Side Academy, is a collection of writing compiled over the year by members of the student body. For over twenty years the magazine was edited and managed solely by the Fifth Form and the faculty adviser. Not until recently were editorial and business staff opportunities thrown open to all boys in the senior school.

A new cover design and the addition of pictures in 1948 marked a modernization of the magazine. It still maintains its original purpose: to offer each pupil an opportunity to publish his original work. Mr. Willard E. Mead and Mr. Alan B. McMillen act as faculty advisers.

The Art Club

The Art Club offers to interested students the opportunity of developing skills in painting, sketching, pottery, and metalcraft. The Art Club also sponsors an annual series of exhibits in Rowe Hall which this year included Mrs. John W. Ballentyne's oils of Scottish subjects, paintings by Dr. Erdman Harris, oils by the Abstract Group of Pittsburgh, water colors by Jean Thoburn, caricatures by Mr. Wolfson, work by Schenley High School, and the usual commencement exhibit of Shady Siders' works.

The Art Club is sponsored by Mr. Carl M. Cochran.

The Gargoyle Society is the group of actors, stagehands, and electricians who annually sponsor the Academy's only play. Boys from the four upper forms, who have contributed to the play and who, in the society's opinion, will add to the organization, are elected to the society.

This year Shakespeare's Julius Caesar was produced on March 28th in the Junior School Gymnasium. This play featured a larger than usual cast, an opportunity at new staging techniques, and the new policy of having girls playing the female roles.

The Eight Beats and the Rest

The Eight Beats and the Rest, directed by Dr. Erdman Harris and Mr. Donald H. Miller is selected at the beginning of the year as an independent group. They specialize in the barber-shop quartet arrangements. The Eight Beats perform occasionally in chapel but concentrate their efforts on the Ellis-Shady Side Concert in February.

Coached by Mr. F. Walter Jones, the basketball team wound up one of its stiffest schedules in recent years with two wins and fifteen losses. A captain was appointed by Mr. Jones at the start of each game; near the end of the season the team elected George Forker as honorary captain.

Here is the story of the season:

In the first game with Wesleyville, Dec. 15, captain Treese leads scoring with 8 in close contest (48-42); fourth quarter rally by Indians fails to close gap . . . On Dec. 27, team opposes members of last 3 Shady Side championship teams in game with Alumni; pick-up in fourth quarter fails to overcome Alumni's first-half margin. Score: 44-39 . . . On Jan. 8 Jonesmen lose to North Catholic, 62-36 . . . On Jan. 15 Van Horn scores 18 as Indians drop another to Waynesburg Freshmen, 61-55 . . . On Jan. 18 S. S. A. wins first game, 63-44, over W. P. Varsity Baseball

Led by Captain George Forker and with Mr. John S. Thorpe back at the helm, the Indian nine goes after first league crown in twenty years in an effort to capture the all-round trophy.

Having finished the season with 8 wins, 5 losses, and 1 tie, the '51 team gained a second place in the Interstate Preparatory School League. Mr. Dean Bair served as coach. Just for the record, here's what happened in the spring of '51:

Shaler beaten as Forker pitches season's opener . . . SSA loses to Schenley in an 8-5 slugfest . . . Peabody—SSA tie at 1-1 as Hepinstall pitches nine innings in the two-hit game; Swensrud scores only Indian run . . . 11 hits provide a 9-2 victory over West View . . . Penn High downed by SSA team 2-0 . . . Blue and Gold lose to West Deer 8-5 . . . later outplay Pitt Freshmen in 4-1 game . . . take Shaler again 3-2 . . . overcome early Wilkinsberg lead to take 6-5 decision.

LEAGUE GAMES

First league game sees Balph driving in 3 runs as Shady Side takes WRA 4-2 . . . SSA's last minute 5-run rally fails to check Nichol's 6-run lead and the second league tilt finishes 6-5 . . . Tom Hamilton loser in a 1-0 1-hitter with University School . . . Take Cranbrook in 5-1 game.

Nine wins, two losses, and a third place in the Interstate Preparatory School League meet add up to a creditable performance by the '51 track team. Here's a summary of the season:

Triangular meet with Perry and Schenley: SSA—64 points; Perry—35 points; Schenley—25 points . . . Win over Langley High 95-23 . . . Win over Shaler . . . Defeat by Penn High, 65⅓—52⅓ . . . Triangular meet with Brentwood and Linsley results in 68½ points for SSA, 51½ for Brentwood, and 30 for Linsley . . . Victory over Carrick (city champions) 68-50 . . . SSA wins in triangular meet by scoring 77½ points to South Hills' 36 and Oliver's 34½ . . . Defeat by Wilkinsburg, 62-56 . . . Interstate track meet at WRA: WRA takes first, Cranbrook second, SSA third, University fourth, and Nichols fifth.

The '52 team faces the following schedule:

April 25	Shaler (away)
April 29	Penn High
May 2	Brentwood
May 6	Oliver
May 9	(open)

With the return of only one letterman, Captain Dave Stotz, the Indian Divot-Diggers face a rough season. The loss of last year's captain has hurt the team considerably, but interest shown by underformers promises to give the '52 team new blood.

Last year's team completed a 9 and 3 record for a successful season. The team opened the '51 season on April, 20 with a good start by defeating Plum Township 13½ to 1½ on the Oakmont Country Club course . . . Next April 23 found the Shady Siders entertaining Penn on the Fox Chapel Course and winning the second victory, 10 to 5 . . . Following a loss to a strong Butler High team led by a former Shady Side Golfer on April 27, the team jumped back to beat West View at home on April 30, 12, to 3; Springdale, away on May 3, 15 to 0; and Plum Township at home on May 7, 9½ to 5½ . . . At Alcoma on a rainy course the Redmen lost 10 to 5 on May 11 . . . A victory over Allerdice on May 14 and a loss in the rain at Highland Country Club on May 17 gave the Blue & Gold a 6 and 3 record to date . . . Ending out the season in a spirit of power, the team handed Butler a set-back on May 21 and defeated Wilkinsburg on May 22, 12½ to 2½ . . . On Monday, May 28, the Duffers finished the last game with a victory over Greensburg in the rain at Oakmont 10½ to 4½.

Last year's Indians completed the '51 season with an overall record of 8 victories and 3 defeats with Captain Kesel suffering but one setback. Here's the story on the '51 matches:

S.S.A. vs. Edgewood: Kesel loses to city champ . . . second singles lost but Stuhldreher victorious . . . both doubles lose . . . Score, 4-1. S.S.A. vs. W.R.A.: After beating Mt. Lebanon 5-0 and being rained out at Brentwood, the Blue and Gold drubs a visiting W.R.A. seven, 4-1, Breckenridge dropping a close singles match. S.S.A. vs.Edgewood: Kesel averages former defeat and outplays Bowers 8-6 and 6-3 . . . Stuhldreher wins over Gillette again as Academy netters drop a 3-2 match. S.S.A. vs. Nichols: Only league loss all year as Kesel and Stuhldreher again lead team with decisive wins . . . Nichols destined for co-championship with S.S.A. S.S.A. vs. Crafton: A week after trouncing Mt. Lebanon again, 4-1, the Indians turn back Crafton 4-1 as first doubles drops a 3-set match. S.S.A. vs. U. S.: In Cleveland on May 18, the Blue and Gold raqueteers defeat their old rivals 4-1 . . . second doubles, Jenkins and Ousler, suffer the only Shady Side loss. S.S.A. vs. Wilkinsburg: Following a 5-0 win over the Pitt Freshmen, the Shady Side netters repeat this shutout score by taking Wilkinsburg H.S. on the home courts. S.S.A. vs. Cranbrook: Final league match halted by rain with Indians ahead, 3-0 . . . Cranbrook concedes as downpour intervenes and S.S.A. secures a co-championship.

The class of 1952, a noble, idealistic group of not merely thinkers but also doers, has accomplished what nobody else has ever done successfully in the whole vast scope of history. A Utopian colony—independent, uncorrupted, perfect in every way—has been established.

A typically happy day in the Utopia of the Class of '52 finds radiant joy and effervescent youth abounding. The inhabitants, untouched by the cares of the world, spend their days at their elected duties, gaily singing a syncopated version of Howard's immortal tribute to a great institution. Phil Boggs, by popular request, rules justly and benignly as official. "He's our boy, but . . . " Kingly in every respect, he shows deep humanitarian tendencies. Since arriving in Utopia in an exhausted condition after having finally finished his secondary schooling, he has spent most of his time flopped down on the local beach, the center of attraction for all feminine Utopianees.

No perfect society could be perfect without an opposition party to spread dirty, insidious rumors. Adhering to this good clean way of life a powerful political syndicate, led by "Black" George Brennan, fiery orator and man about society, has sprung up to add to the jovial atmosphere a pleasant air of politics. There are those who feel that perhaps Black George is merely a figurehead in this party, lovingly referred to as "those nasty fellows". This group feels that the real influence is exerted by James L. Walker, the people's friend — sometimes called the Little Commish because he drives a convertible and is known to be capable of stuffing ballot boxes in a most un-Utopian manner.

Working hand in pocket with Walker, is his buddy Laughing Lou Friedman, defender of the people's rights, friend to those who have no friend. Lou is the publicity director of the party and can always be found dancing up and down the center aisle leading happy, awe-inspiring cheers for practically everybody. "Bam Slam Cram—no more Spam! Cheer Cheer Cheer— give us water!" Forceful Louis will go far in this community. He seems to have what it takes. In fact he has already invented a radar device for the detection of icebergs.

No society would be perfect without a well run prison. Facing the main cowpath is a large brick building with the doors and windows barred from the inside. The inscription above the clock reads Howard Hall. This is the prison, guarded faithfully by Al Breckenridge and Dave Patterson who, while at S. S. A., believed that pupils should spend their prep school days preparing for the future. Their only prisoner, a perennial offender, is Ron Glick, best remembered for his stirring dramatic orations before he "went bad." He now labors for the common good in one of the cooperative factories. His job? Pushing the lever which controls the hot air supply.

Outside the building, unsuccessfully pleading for the prisoner's release is Bill Balph. He stumbles through his words. His posture is poor; his enunciation is faulty; his motivation is very weak. At frequent intervals he mumbles something incoherent about Thursday morning classes. Sad fate for a man who once was an eminent professor of speech! Far away, a stranger to the community cackles hideously and rereads his favorite public speaking book, "How to Win Friends and Influence Prison Keepers."

The community is not lacking in benevolent commerce either. Commerce thrives where there is no currency, and so does Paul Pigman whose quaint little cafe, the Rivway, provides a pleasurable antithesis of hot jazz and cold liquid refreshments. His competitors Don Cookson and Ted Tafel are slowly going broke (not money, fool—comradeship) as their "We mfr. it, bottle it, and have to drink it ourselves" milk concern can't stand Pigman's monopolistic tactics. Baird Faller's Foulest Ford Co. provides the fellows with taxi service. He earns much good will by transporting the boys to evening parties arranged by Jim Robinson, the wealthy malt manufacturer (bitter rival of Tafel and Cookson) and Curt Yohe, the sailing enthusiast. Baird earns his money from his faithful subjects, who each year contribute his weight in gold and send it to him by Brinks armored car. Having quit his diet years ago, he manages to make enough to support his harem of forty Utopianees.

Another aspiring business man is Ray Rosenblum who, despite a superior knowledge of the more legitimate tricks of the trade, is still unemployed, since he gave up in disgust before the onslaught of TV.

The group of carefree Utopians who wile away the happy hours in Marten Jenkins' barbeque and soft drink palace (a non-commercial Dinty Moore type of place) is an outstanding example of the supremacy of mankind's perseverance and determination. Led by George Deike, who hasn't a worry in his jovial little world, this group is composed primarily of ascetics—refrainers from excesses. A daily argument occurs between Mike and Doug Underwood who, despite many obvious similarities, never saw each other before entering Shady Side. Doug, author of the best selling "On Getting One's Ring Back When the Thrill Is Gone," is consistently opposed by the happy-go-lucky Nugget whose philosophy is based on the "buy-more-rings" theory. Listening attentively with a bored, blasé expression on his humble countenance is Dick Fisher who's really quite beyond all that since he wrote his book about everyday people, their lives and problems, under the pen name of Soo-Chee.

Playfully strangling each other with tightened figure-fours are Dick Thorpe and his disciple Myron Markel and Myron Markel and his disciple, Dick Thorpe, the human pretzel and exponent of the nomadic life. In a darkened corner of the always lighted room, Jim Urda, Sports Editor of the Utopia Times, is putting The Goose in his proper place. Bill Drake—the Goose, of course, you kid you—is objecting vehemently, but Jim's ferocious football tactics win out in the end.

Precariously balancing his nymph-like 240 pounds on a soap box is Ray Waggoner, the schoolboy's Mark Antony, inspiring Dapper Ted Sheridan to new heights with his impassioned Shakespearean deliveries. At nine each day Ray appears on TV: "Hello, kiddies. It's Uncle Ray again to read the funnies for you, "he simpers as he bobs his head, shrugs his shoulders, and shuffles his feet.

A tell-tale blur on the under side of the wall tells us that Tom Murry was here and is no more. Carefully watching all that goes on in the establishment are Bill Metzger, district seltzer salesman, and Clark King, a bad boy gone worse—a speed demon de luxe.

On leaving this emporium of delight, I found myself in a rugged group of blooming young giants who spend their waking hours in the pursuit of nature and their sleeping hours under the stars on the beach. Adhering to this good life is Tom O'Shaughnessy, Eagle Scout who, when not rubbing two sticks together lectures a reluctant Paul Yeaton on the advantages of the good life. Paul still lives well from the blackmail he regularly collects on his '52 party pictures.

George Forker and Pete Runnette, staunch defenders of the marital state, spend their days fruitlessly attempting to win Jim Salathe away from his condition of unrestrained bachelorhood. Neville Fowler, who plays that other kind of music, has endeared himself to all with his quiet, waltz-like parodies on rural life in these worlds. Dick Isay, once a meek unassuming fellow, has blossomed forth into a veritable tiger of a lad and does nothing but run around breathing fire and damnation on those less fortunate than he. He swears he'll change the face of the world.

A curious sight for the outdoorsman to behold is John Stuhldreher, casually firing one-handed push shots at Jim Treese, who obligingly hangs from a tall tree with his mouth agape, ceaselessly spouting off on the subject of females and their idiosyncrasies as he did in his book "How to Cope with Love Problems." When questioned, Jim explained with a sly chuckle, "This way I don't have to get the rebounds for him."

Even this supposedly perfect community has those who refuse to fit into the normal pattern. Outstanding in this group is one W. Carson, jack-of-all-trades, sometimes called just plain Winfield. He skips around waiting for someone to hire him. He still wears that same moldy blue sweater—his letter sweater.

Bill Braun sits sadly under a tree sorrowfully relating the escapades of his favorite cousin. As I approached him, Bill brightened with recognition. "I've got another one," he said; "his name's Leroy. He makes enriched bread, too."

Day after day Frazer Lewis can be found in the community art gallery hurling cheap golf balls at an abstract painting of Dave Stotz, who hangs from the wall, tees in mouth, his score card filled with tell-tale erasures.

On leaving the gallery I was fiercely accosted by a disheveled, dangerous-looking fellow, Dashing Dick Sturtevant, who kept screaming for me to beware of red-headed history teachers in January. I threw him a pleasant smile and continued along to behold a wondrous sight. Bill Steel has somehow managed to cultivate a large toenail growing out of his head. It wriggles joyfully on hearing the well known T O E cheer. That isn't his only accomplishment, either. He has finally written his book and entitled it Neuroses.

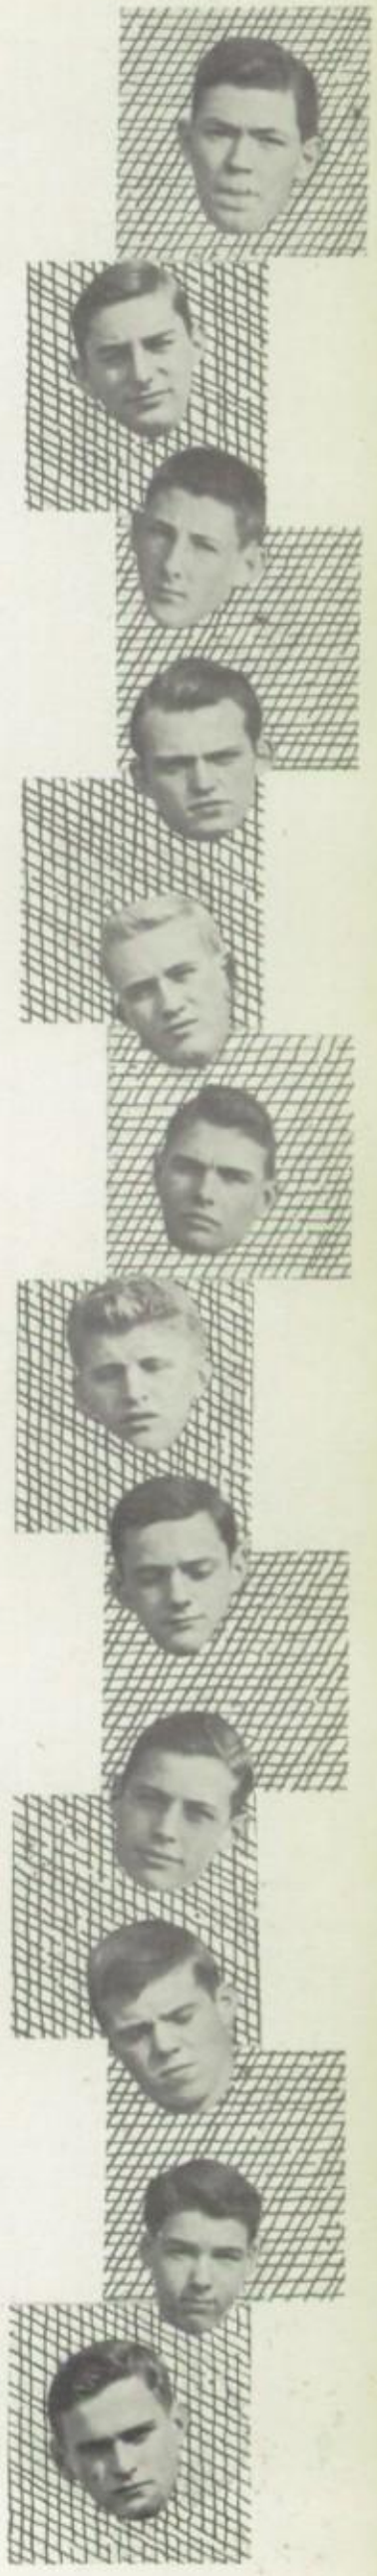
Completing the list of unusual people are the unrelated Hamilton boys. Herb spends his time rubbing his hands over old issues of the News in a vain effort to restore the circulation, while Bill is . . . Bill does . . . Bill says . . . He's a real character! It seems that Beely had a complete collapse after the last prop of his world, Mr. Sargent took a leave of absence.

Following every movement of the gay Utopians are two strangers to the community, Ernesto Monroy and Armando Terrazzas. These fine young chaps arrived as inocent exchange students (although there was some rumor that they were in reality spies seeking the Fountain of Youth) and are now full Utopians in every sense of the wonderful word.

As the splendor of the never-setting sun shone down on me, I departed sadly from Utopia, pausing only to notice Bill Montgomery who lives on the outskirts of the community as a gentleman farmer who takes his ease Utopian-wise.

As a major prophet with his prophesying finished, I must return to my cross-legged meditation. Even a prescient mind sometimes sees only discouraging things in store for the world—outside of the Utopia established by the class of '52, of course.

(The editors of this yearbook gratefully acknowledge the inspiration and effort of the many people who have contributed to the writing of this prophecy: Louis Friedman for his sage interpretations of the future of several assorted personalities; Alan Lebowitz for the basic idea, which we presume is the outgrowth of his wishful thinking; Joel Colker for his successful stumbling through a difficult longhand version to arrive at a typed version; and, oh, yes, Jim Robinson, who, we understand, helped on some of the interpretations.)



Sept. 4—And awaaaaay we gooo—another year, another season, another (puff) lap, as pre-season athletes, sweltering in summer heat, turn the pump into a miniature swimming pool.

Sept. 10—After a last breath of the air of freedom, 232 students flock into Rowe Hall with happy, eager smiles to start another 180 days of carefree schooling.

Sept. 19—Mr. Brenneman tells of his trip to Europe, carefully avoids questions about his experiences in Paris.

Sept. 21—Blue-and-Gold gridders open 1951 season against Allderdice—though losing 14-6, the team showed plenty of fight and promise of better things to come.

Sept. 24—The chapel is filled with discordant, off-key notes as the Musical Clubs hold their annual tryouts—three light bulbs shattered by sound of one crooner's straining voice.

Oct. 3—Sargon's president and only member, Bill Balph, taps Ted Tafel and Al Breckenridge in first tap ceremony of the year.

Oct. 12—Shades of Saco! The man from Maine appears on television. In spite of this, sale of TV sets still on increase.

Oct. 15—The faculty advisory system begins at Shady Side as the lists of advisers are posted. After a frantic struggle, six noble boys prevent Flan from jumping off Rowe Hall roof.

Oct. 20—Indians go on heap long warpath to Michigan. Booters fight to a scoreless tie, but grid braves take Cranbrook scalp, 26-13, as Captain Ted Tafel scores four touchdowns.

Oct. 21—On return trip, to celebrate the licking his team gave to the Cranes, Mr. Jones gives same to a ten-scoop cone presented him by loyal players.

Oct. 22—Campus intellectuals join together to form a Chess Club. These checkerboard geniuses rook themselves out of Friday knights to pawnder their next moves.

Oct. 24—Young Mr. Nettrour learns that crime does not pay, as seniors work swift justice in making him the first boy this year to have his pants fly in the honored spot beneath the flag.

Oct. 26—In spite of Mr. Cochran's easily-followed explanations, non-artistic students remain baffled by exhibit of abstract art.

Oct. 27—Shady Side athletes put on show for alumni, winning both Homecoming Day games: football, 28-14, soccer, 1-0.

Oct. 27—Ellsworth holds the first dance of the year. Forker and Isaly put on wrestling exhibition.

Oct. 31—Disguised as a hallowe'en spirit, complete with bright daubs of color, Jack Brody becomes the No. 2 victim of the Class of '52.

Nov. 3—In spite of the three inches of snow on the W.R.A. field, the Jonesmen get fired up, plow Reserve under, 20-13.

Nov. 9—Alumni announce the beginning of their drive to build a memorial chapel on the site of the present Rowe Hall parking lot. Day boys start drive for memorial to parking lot.

Nov. 10—Gridders beat Nichols 25-14 to bring home first football championship since 1947, then give Lou a free shower.

Nov. 20—The atomic age comes to Shady Side as Dr. John R. Dunning performs experiments with a radioactive "gun." Beely (Me-'n-Reege) Hamilton thinks this is Omicron's super positronic pocket pistol, and tries to arrest Dr. Dunning for theft.

Nov. 20—Highlight of the fathers-and-sons smoker is the gift of the soccer team to coach Berg: an Irish setter.

Nov. 30—Curry Gym resembles a lighted forest as Musical Clubs put on a Christmas-theme Hick Hop.

Dec. 6—Dave Patterson, Don Cookson, Phil Boggs, and Gene Helsel—tapped for Sargon—go modernistic with plastic red ties.

Dec. 14—Boys, turned panicky at the thought of being marooned all weekend at school, brave snow-covered roads to drive home.

Dec. 17—"Hark, the herald angels sing," but chapel renditions of Christmas carols sound like anything but herald angels.

Dec. 21—"Now for two whole weeks away from this cruddy hole and these lousy, double-crossing mast . . . Oh, yes, sir, Merry Christmas to you, too."

Dec. 31-Jan. 1—All the boys at Piney Shadows find considerable pleasure in the antics of one of the insects (a maggot) running around loose.

Jan. 7—Theme song of boys returning from vacation: I tan't wait till Twist-mas day, the best vacaion of the year.

Jan. 14—Shady Side goes international as two Chihuahuans (Mexican boys, not dogs), Manny and Ernie, join the Class of '52.

Jan. 28—Man most hated by seniors—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

Jan. 29—Jokesters post cartoon on study hall door, then find out, thanks to Mr. A.'s history exam how funny it really is.

Feb. 2—Fifth Form Dance gives boys chance to recuperate. Three of them pass out from exhaustion caused by exams.

Feb. 4—With an ever-sharp performance by Puuuush, casting trials for Julius Caesar get under way.

Feb. 8—Kuhns-Pierce monopoly broken up as Neville Fowler wins the photo contest.

Feb. 15—Dum Shaude (alias Cum Laude) chooses "Click-Click" Glick, Al "The Leer" Lebowitz, "Rocky" Ray Rosenblum, and "Lester Legree" Walker for membership in its hallowed ranks.

Feb. 18—Television of 1975 is assured of a great lady wrestler as Mr. Brenneman becomes a proud (and confused) father.

Feb. 22—The Musical Clubs of Shady Side and Ellis hold their combined concert; four boys collapse trying to outsing the girls in the finale.

Feb. 27—Dave Stotz, with his "dreamy" voice, arouses the school to new heights of generosity (as if there were old ones) in launching the Red Cross drive.

Feb. 29—Today is Leap Year Day, but the girls know better than to ask Shady Side boys for a date. Luckily, this happens only once every four years.

Mar. 1—March roars in like a lion, with two inches of snow. Still, a few fiends for knowledge manage to get to Saturday D.S.

Mar. 5—"Sir, will the college boards ask about the . . . " "Don't bothah me, Pattahson; look it up in the big book."

Mar. 7—Sargon taps ten more.

Mar. 10—The editors of this worthy book just snatched this masterpiece out of the type writer to make the dead

..... so from here on, this will be even more made up than the first part.

MAR. 15 – Question of the weekend, after today's exams: What college aren't you going to?

MAR. 27 – Highlighted by a thundering (this we mean literally) performance by Revelling Ray "Waggoner, Julius Caesar and his ghost tread the boards of the Jr. school gym.

MAR. 28 – With a cloud of dust and a hearty "Heigh-ho, Cadillacron!" the Florida-bound caravan roars out of the parking lot.

APR. 19 – The picnic season begins its full-time swing, and spring fever causes seniors to do even less work than before, if possible.

EARLY MAY – Someplace in here comes the Prom. What a great night to remember! Unfortunately, many boys can't.

MAY 22 – My, but this sunbathing on the golf course while dogging athletics is soothing. Healthful, too, Cap, just like your lamp.

JUNE 7 – An exam on Saturday! What a dirty trick.

JUNE 9 – An exam! This is a dirty trick in itself.

JUNE 10 – The last one! Oh well, they say that extra credits from a second senior year are nice to have.

JUNE 13 – It was a tough fight, Ma, but I made it, it says here on the diploma. Well, the class of 1952 of Shady Side Academy is now history; with a smile and a tear, we'll say, "so long, till we meet again."

Tribute

Sera tamen respexit Libertas.
—Virgil

Even though "liberty" in Mr. Waldrop's case has perhaps been achieved with some degree of reluctance, the combined Editorial and Business Staffs of the Academian and indeed the whole senior class take this opportunity, at the close of the senior section, to pay tribute to the man who has for many years been a vital and constant force behind the publication of the Shady Side annual.

Certainly Mr. Waldrop has the right to feel wonderfully satisfied with his contribution to the life of the school as a teacher of Latin and Greek and as adviser to the business staff of the Academian in the twenty-three years pro-libertate. He has been a reliable guide, a sincere and understanding friend, and an inspiring teacher to many generations of students.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Waldrop will be greatly missed. To them we wish a retirement as rich and as full and as meaningful as their contribution to Shady Side has been. Mr. Waldrop might well say, as Charles Lamb once said, "Opus operatum est. . . I have worked taskwork, and have the rest of the day to myself."

COAL

Bituminous coal is the major industrial fuel.

The modern practice in a bituminous coal mine has the characteristics of a mass production factory. In the half-century ending with 1950 the United States production of bituminous coal more than doubled.

The mechanized efficiency of the United States bituminous coal mining industry is outstanding among the coal producing nations of the world.

LEADERSHIP in Refractories

CENTERS IN PITTSBURGH

Harbison-Walker plays leading roles in the development and manufacture of new and better refractories, so important to all industrial progress. Refractories are used around the world in the production of such essentials as iron and steel, coke and by-products, aluminum, copper, nickel, zinc, lead, magnesium, tin, steam generated electric power, manufactured gas, glass, Portland cement, lime, abrasives, pulp and paper and ceramic materials.

Through Harbison-Walker Research and Engineering activities, advances are made in refractories to keep pace with improved industrial practices. With headquarters in Pittsburgh, the Company has widely distributed plants, quarries and mines in many states, and offices and warehouses in principal cities.

Harbison-Walker manufactures all types and classes of refractories for all industrial furnace requirements.

"With brains, sir!"

The great artist, Sir Joshua Reynolds, is said to have made this reply when asked with what he mixed his paints to achieve such perfect colors.

We call it imagination.

Imagination is the key to the treasury of success! It splits the atom. It harnesses cosmic energy. It converts a lump of common coal into chemicals for use in agriculture, industry and medicine.

Coal, like all natural resources, is chemically composed. When burned as a fuel the only benefit derived from it is heat. But, if carbonized in a chamber from which air is excluded, coal can be converted into coke, gas, oils, ammonia, and tar. Some of these components can be still further subdivided into an almost endless variety of other chemicals.

Our modern coal-chemical plant, which makes this amazing metamorphosis possible, had to be imagined first!

How do you Guide a Missile?

WHAT does it take to put a "brain" in a projectile —a "mind" that makes it know where to go, and when to explode? For that matter, how do you open garage doors and light the driveway at the beep of your horn . . . or throw out one faulty package from thousands in a food-packing plant?

It takes special metals for such miracles—high-alloy steels and special magnetic materials of the types in which we have pioneered and are today leading producers. For any job which requires something more than ordinary steels can give you, look first to the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation . . . General Offices: Oliver Building, Pittsburgh 22, Pa.

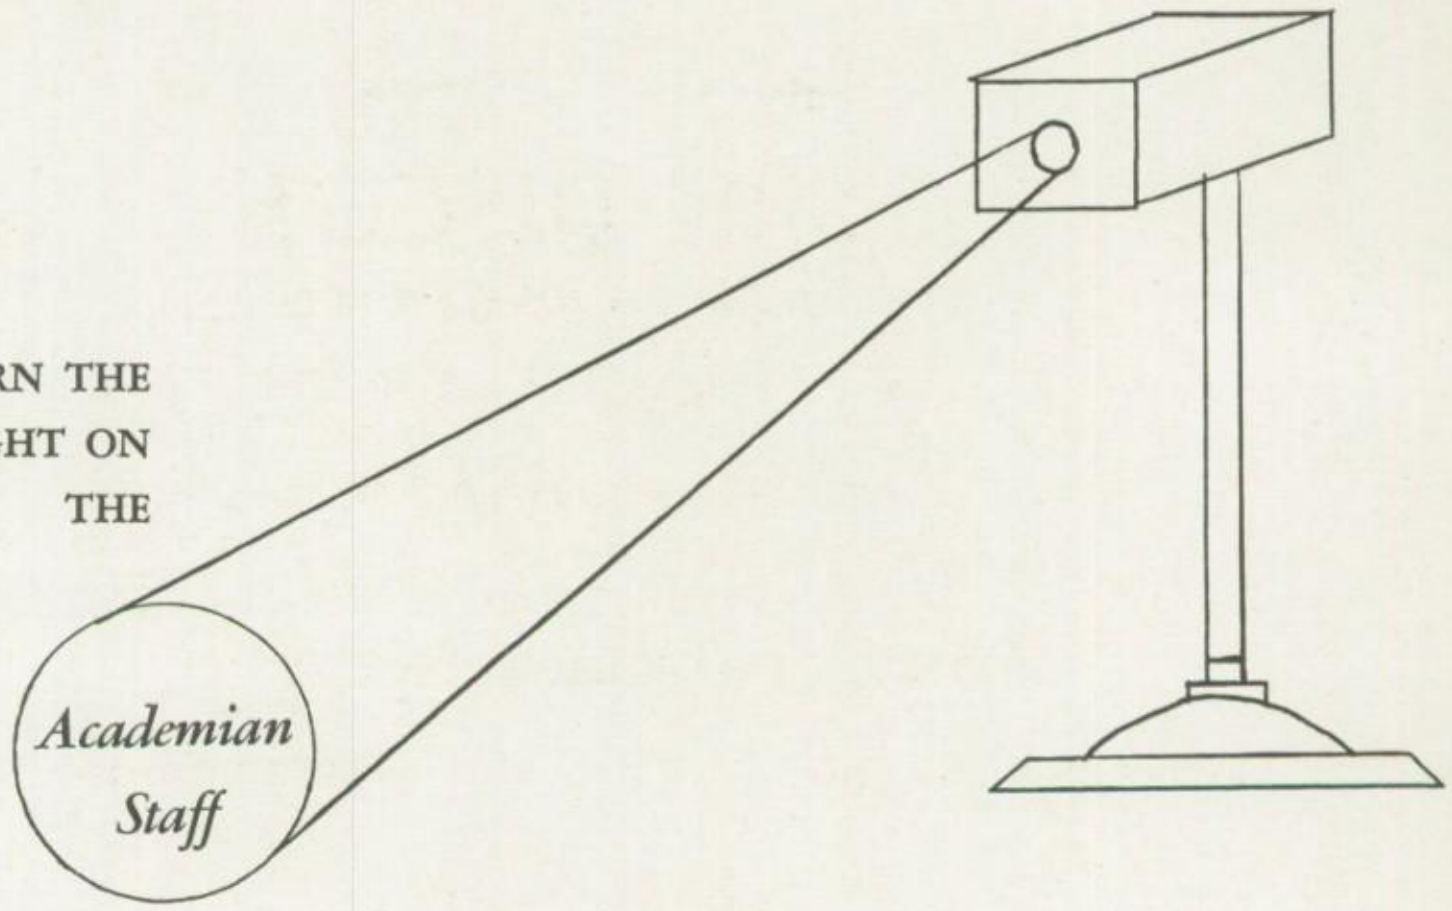
LET'S TURN THE SPOTLIGHT ON THE



THE PARRY STUDIO wishes to take this opportunity to spotlight the members of the Academian Staff through whose efforts this book was made possible. Each year's Academian is intended as a salute to the Senior Class. We feel that it is no less a tribute to the students and their faculty advisers who have edited this book. The success of the 1952 Academian is but a part of their reward, for the valuable training and experience which they have had, will stand them in good stead for the remainder of their careers.

The entire staff of THE PARRY STUDIO joins me in wishing you continued success. It has indeed been a pleasure working with you.

FOR THE FINEST IN YEARBOOKS...

HAVE YOU NOTICED how many colleges and universities are turning to Keller's for their yearbooks? Keller's refinement of the lithography method of printing, VELVATONE, means more pictures, better layout design and needle-sharp fidelity in picture reproduction. Famous, too, are Keller's service organization and creative team. A service representative will gladly call to discuss your yearbook plans.
